“ My grandmother was Margaret Moriarty "Mimi". Gootsie lived next door to her in Renovo. One summer, my mother, my oldest son, and I went up for a visit to see Mimi. That is when we met Gootsie. My son, Blake, was probably three at the time. Gootsie treated him like a grandson. Blake would return from visits with Gootsie with stained lips of various colors (popsicles), a hand full of Army green Paratroopers with the plastic parachutes, toy planes, and i don't remember what else. Gootsie had obvious made a trip or two to the store to stock up his 'Grandparent' supplies. Memories of this summer often come up in conversation, and are always followed with smiles.

God whispers peace...
