“ Gary Sawyer: Dick and I spent 15 years officiating soccer together. He was a wonderful official and always made the game fun. I enjoyed our many road trips together. He was always ready to share his knowledge about both soccer and life.

“ It seems like I could write a book about the things you passed along to me, but here is a short list of the most important things that I will try to pass along to Bailey. From the time I was very young, you always tried to teach us the importance of a strong work ethic. We watched you go to work, coach our teams, make sure the yard was cleared of those pesky weeds.

The second lesson you taught me in life: Information is the key to life. You demonstrated throughout your life and in your profession how valuable having the right information can be in any aspect of life. You taught us the value of researching problem, whether it be from a book, the library, or just weeding things down to the basic facts. You demonstrated, once the facts were in place, you could deduce the right decision.

The third lesson you taught me in life: respect and sportsmanship. You taught us through soccer and you demonstrated this on the field and off the field. When you coached us, you never disrespected the opponents, you never expressed your frustration verbally to your players, instead you always used those moments as teaching us the the practicality of patience and better methods. Off the field when I had problems or issues, you always used this methodology.

I will miss you!

“ I officiated with Dick for my 24 years and remember last year in early spring when we sat together at the USSF re-certification class. As always, he shared his experiences on the "pitch" and I was always wanting to gain knowledge from him as he was always willing to share and knew the rules so well. I just enjoyed our interchanges over the years and officiating with him as I always knew he had the answers and presented them in such a professional manner and was an incredible representative of the game. He was a man of great integrity. I am so sorry for your loss but what we all have gained from Dick being in our lives is immeasurable. Class Act!

“ My thoughts and prayers are with your family during this difficult time. There is so much good to say about Dick concerning his personality, outlook on life, willingness to share and help but I will offer a few brief soccer related comments as I have refereed with him for 37 or 38 years.

Dick had a passion and gift for refereeing soccer. He was always positive, willing to work any number of games of any age group, at all times and in all kinds of weather. It didn't matter if it was a single JV game, a weekend tournament, a college game or YMCA games. He was known far and wide for his mentioning, helping, training and support of young youth referees. If you needed someone to fill in Dick would be there. He had a gentle but firm and commanding nature on the soccer field or "pitch" as it is referred to. I will always remember Dick at the Illinois High School boys' state final tournament trying to stay warm in some terribly cold weather. Yet he never complained, he just did the exemplary job that we were always used to seeing him do. Friends and family, including his extended soccer family, have suffered a great loss but he has left us with wonderful lasting memories.

He is a dear friend who will be deeply missed by so very many people.
