“ Lori Powell lit a candle in memory of Travis Dean Brown

“ Travis - you were the son that everyone wished was theirs. You always stood up for who/what you believed in !! You loved deeply and stood ready to defend that which you loved. My favorite memory is when you would come to my house and treat my animals so tenderly - even as young as you were (5 or 6) !!!
You will be missed by all who knew you..... I know that you are with Jesus and even as He holds you - you will still be holding your precious daughter, Emmalyna..... Your HomeGoing celebration was sweet. I'll be seeing you in Heaven..... so, until we meet again, sweet Travis..... Rest in Peace

“ I have way too many memories to list on here with Travis since 2008. But the one I will never forget is when he took my sister's hand in marriage and promised her a wedding one day they both never got and how they saved me and my daughter's life, also his niece not mentioned. Though they had said problems that needed not to be brought to light because it doesn't matter anymore. What matters to me is that him and my sister intervened for me during struggling custody battle to receive my daughter back again. He was the glue to our family for over 11 years and still forever on with my niece Emmalyn Rechelle Brown. I wanted to pay my respects to him at his services by I am saddened that his nieces and I will only have to send our love from home due to illness. I pray for Wendy because coming from an Aunt losing their niece is the worst part of life next to losing your very own. Emma forever had our names mixed up whenever she came home to us from visits with daddy. I also know how you raised your brother a lot of times like my sister done with me. I am forever grateful for him getting my daughter back to me because without him, I never would have made custody in time. Thank-you Uncle Bono, from Layla and Amelia and your sister in spirit,
Brittany Dunson
Now finish the good fight with the Lord.

“ I'm so so sorry for your loss, it's unbelievably heart breaking. I will keep you and your family in my prayers and whoever left the comment above maybe reread, she's clearly talking about how he helped HER with her custody battle. She's not talking about his own custody battle.

“ Emmalyna would have loved 13 yr. old Breonna Perrotta for these Beautiful words of her Dad and Comrades in service to our country.

Because of you, I am able to live a free life
And you lived everyday ready to pay the ultimate price
Because of you our country still stands
When you were away remember you were in God's hands

Every day, I always give the utmost admiration
To those who are fighting to defend our nation
Many people have taken for granted that our Freedom will always be free
Except we tend to forget those who have kept that right for you and also for me

For future generations, your legacy you gave
In this land of the free, the Home of the Brave
You probably don't know his story
You will most likely never speak his name
You want see him in your dreams tonight
But you owe him just the same

He never admits to being a hero
That's not what heroes do
Instead of showing off to others
He fights for the Red, White, and Blue

Every moment he misses his family
Every day brings another fight
But, its just a small price to pay
To let his family sleep safe at night

There is something in you soldier that makes you stand apart
There is strength in you soldier that beats right from your heart.

I salute you Master Sgt. Travis for your many sacrifices while serving our Nation.
and being a fellow comrade to me in the United States Army.

“ Travis was a kind, loving soul with a big heart and would not hurt anyone intentionally. Especially, his little girl, Emmalyna, who he loved so much. He deserves to be honored for his service to our country. He spent many years away from his family in Iraq and Korea fighting for our freedom. His absence from his family he loved caused problems and his marriage ended. He was heart broken. I know God had a plan for him and Emmalyna. God wanted them to serve in his army saving lost souls. RIP my precious nephew. Your troubles are now over.
