“ Brandon, dude, it's been years since we last talked and I will forever remember you constantly telling me to smile and not let these stupid little boys bring me down. You always had a way to make everyone in class laugh and smile. Me, you, and Michael always would make jokes in language arts class. Fly high buddy! Gone but definitely not forgotten.

“ It has been over 10 years since I've seen Brandon, but we grew up together along with Julia and Alan. Even though we didn't talk, I kept up with your life through social media and always thought about you all. I will miss you dearly Brandon. I love you cousin

“ Brandon was one of the few rays of sunshine guiding me and comforting me during some of the darkest times in my life. I loved that sweet boy more than he could possibly ever know. His loyalty and support knew no bounds. There were no caveats to his love or his kindness. Whether you were friend or foe, family or stranger, it didn't matter. His soul, his inner light was so damn bright. But it seems as if his light was too bright and his soul was too gentle for this dark cruel world. My only solace in this time of pain and gut-wrenching sorrow is knowing that his pain, his sorrow, his suffering is finally over. He has moved on from this mortal life to live among the stars where he's always belonged. The darkness there will not dim his light or dull his shine. It will only give him space to be and the opportunity to shine brighter than his soul ever could before. May we all seek comfort in knowing he is finally at peace. I love you Brandon, forever and always. As I have in this life, I know I will in the next. Shine on ✨
