not a day goes by that I don't mourn my brother. How do you keep going when you have lost the person who always had your back. I miss calling you and laughing with you and asking who were people in pictures I don't remember. You never forgot anything, and you were supposed to be my memory person when my mind finally goes. I visited your grave this week and laid down on top of your grave, wishing the ground would swallow me up so I could join you. I love and miss you Bro

“ my brother's granddaughter, Lara Christian, wrote the following on May 29, 2022 about her Papaw White. Although she won't be able to come to the funeral, this best describes how she felt about him. "So thankful our papaw got to make it this weekend to visit and watch Leah play ball. He has always made time to come and watch us play ball. Recreational, and though out our college experiences he's drove the Georgia/Mississippi trip over and over again. We could always count on him to be there ❤️ not many get to see grandkids play let alone great grandkids. We will cherish these moments!"

“ For the past 72 years I have had a big brother watching out for me, always having my back, pestering me, secretly loving me even though it wasn't cool to love your sister. But that was my brother Tommy, my hero always. There wasn't anything I would not have done for him and vice versa. When our parents passed, I told him we were now orphans and promised each other we would always be there for the other. I cannot imagine my life without him. But I know that my parents have welcomed him to his new home and now they will be waiting on me with open arms when it is my time. Rest easy now, I will hold the fort down with Adam by my side, you know he will look after me.

“ CT was more than a friend. He was family. Always had a big smile and hardy laugh. He always made sure “his people” were alright and if they were not alright he was the first to jump in to help. I will miss him very much. I was an honor to call him friend.
