“ I have such fond memories of how beautiful and loving Ryan and Chris were together when they were so small. Everywhere they went people would stop and admire them. I know they still loved each other so, even though there were many miles between them. My heart is so broken to lose another loved one so young. It breaks for me, for Ted, and especially for Ryan., for all of us who feel the loss. We resign ourselves to know that we will lose our grandparents and parents, maybe even a spouse. Yet, there is never anything that we can do to prepare for or accept the loss of a child. In my mind, John and Chris were still boys. The only comfort we can have is to know that they are in Heaven, singing with the angels, living in the light of the lord, and rejoined with Nanny, Wanda, and John. We will miss them horribly. There is a hole in our hearts that really can't mend until we too are with them again. Christopher, we loved you in life and still love you now. You will never be forgotten. We hold you dear in our hearts and minds. Forever.

Love,
Aunt Tammy
