Years ago, I took this photo to a photo shop to see if it could be repaired. That was long before computers made it easy to do photo retouching. The man in the photo shop asked if the pretty young lady in the photo was my mother, and told me I looked just like her. I considered it a compliment. Aunt Ethel was sixteen at the time photo was taken.

Ethel was a dear friend to me for 60plus years. We shared a lot of good days together. She will be missed in my life. I am so glad her suffering is over, but I will always cherish my memories.

“ Ethel McCarty was my aunt and like a second mother to me. I remember spending summers with my grandmother, who lived across the street, and spending almost as much time at Aunt Ethel's house as I did at Grandma's. I credit Aunt Ethel for contributing to my love of reading, as she always had lots of books and magazines. She also encouraged me to sing and gave me the confidence to do it alone, in front of a crowd of people. I have so many wonderful memories of her that I will always cherish. God bless you, precious lady, and may you spend eternity raising your beautiful voice in praise with the rest of the angels.
