“ To the whole Eaton Family: Please accept our deepest condolences on your loss. May you lean on our Heavenly father and each other in this sad time. Here's a small poem in honor of James. Neither age too old, nor age too young Excuses the wide spaces death leaves Tho comforting to have some rooted memories “Reunited” is the branch to which we cleave. There’s One who empathizes and can fulfill this wish Our Father, who from Heaven gazes down He’ll gladly repair all the breaks death caused For the faithful his promises are sound. For the homeless he’ll give the ideal house For the sick he’ll provide perfect health True justice, no crime, work that satisfies Spiritual hunger is replaced by spiritual wealth. Reunion of families is his near future plan The resurrection is how he will do it Along with faith, obedience must come first Study his word, hold fast to truth, never lose it.

“ Dear Jennifer, We just heard the news today about Jim's passing. We are very sad to hear the news and hope that you and the kids are having a prompt recovery. Even after many years of not seeing him around, he's always one of those great memories - great conversations, a gentleman, a very funny guy and a great professional. It's a shame to hear this news and we wish you the best. A big hug from your old Mexican friends. Susan & Luis.
