“ Jake was always a special person with uncompromising values. His courage in a lifetime of struggles gave him and his family a memory of great love and total respect. Jane, I love you and know that the coming weeks and months will be another challenge. But courage and love that passeth all understanding comes from above, Jess, your dad was so proud you all of the days of your life and I'm certain will always have a positive impact on the man and father that you have become. I have always held you special in my heart and wish peace in this a dark hour of loss. Jordan, what can I say to you, one of my joys of life, from your laughter, talent and unmistakable beauty, growing up having to lose your Dad so early. You will find special peace from the legacy that he left you and my prayers and love go with you in this time. Love Daryl

“ Dying is a gradual diminishing and final vanishing over the horizon of life. When we watch a sailboat leaving port and moving toward the horizon, it becomes smaller and smaller until we can no longer see it. But we must trust that someone is standing on a faraway shore seeing that same sailboat become larger and larger until it reaches its new harbor. Death is a painful loss. When we return to our homes after a burial, our hearts are in grief. But when we think about the ONE standing at the other shore eagerly waiting to welcome our beloved friend into a new home, a smile can break through our tears. May time heal what words cannot during this time. Peace
