“ One of the most meaningful signs to me of the childhood of my son's heart was when my father died. Like you I wrote and told him and heard absolutely nothing back. Even his father sent me a very nice note. I do not think you should assume it is the happiness in their current situations that makes them behave this way. And I agree with you, it is very sad and should be part of what goes into truly informed consent if any woman or girl is considering adoption.
