“ Guys, I don't know if you remember me but I lived across the street on Sandringham Drive in Atlanta. I remember your dad driving a Packard with pushbutton auto transmission, playing hide and seek at dusk, catching lightning bugs (fireflies) in the summer, throwing cones from your magnolia tree at each other and pretending they were grenades, going down the trail behind your house to search for mini balls (civil war relics) near Utoy Creek and especially at this time of year your mother Mary Beth who would stay up all night Christmas Eve cooking so that hot sticky buns (pecan rolls) could be delivered to neighbors (like me) as we opened our presents on Christmas morning. It is still a lasting memory for me from my childhood that she provided through her thoughtfulness. Know that she has a warm place in my heart and that she is not forgotten....
