“ Dearest Brother

It has been a while....but I still think of you everyday....somedays are easier than others....its Saturday...and I wonder if you were here would you be at the dog park with Cooper or would you be on the trails in Kennesaw? Cooper is a senior dog now. He was 10 years old last October. The most loving and funny little dog. He loves the water, riding in his stroller at the mall or on our travels. I try my best to spoil him as much as I know you would have.

I found a song by Enya....If I Could Be Where You Are.....I know when my time is up....if there is a heaven...that I will come home to you and mom...at least if there really is a heaven...that's my hope. I still miss you so much.

Love, Jeanne

“ Spending Christmas at your house. Always bittersweet to go there without you present. Will never forget the amazing number of people that filled the house our last christmas together. It is lovely to look back at those photos and see you smiling and eating and laughing...as well as a few tears. Still so blessed to have spent those days with you. Always and forever in my heart. Miss you

“ Well another birthday is quickly approaching. 56 this year. Still seems like just yesterday that we were sitting at the kitchen table and laughing. I miss those days so very much. I miss the funny stories, the quick sarcastic wit, that laugh....that life you lived so much. I will never forget our drive to Tampa....we had such hope. You drove back some and you said it felt so good to be able to do that...normal everyday occurrence....but it meant so much. Listening to your music each morning, laughing and cutting up during chemo treatments...through all that you never lost the humor and the care for those around you. I miss you still.

Always in my thoughts and my heart.

It has been a while since I last wrote, time just seems to be creeping by with no real changes. I was just sitting at my desk and looking at your photo and thinking that you accomplished so very much in the short time you were with us. I hope you know how very proud I was of you and that you were always someone true and solid to all that knew you. I miss talking with you, hearing your laugh, and your very sage advise. I wish I could hear your voice, I wish more than anything that you could have lived a long happy life. I know my life was so much better with you in it.

*It is hard to believe that the holidays are here again. I will be going to your house this year now that COVID vaccines have been given. It is bittersweet for me as all my memories of you and all your belongings are there. I will be happy to be surrounded by you, but also feelings of loss will be evident as the most important person will be missing...I wish you were still here with us, to celebrate, share stories, live life. “ Dearest Brother,

Feeling rather down today. I miss you terribly and would just like some sign...anything really...that you are in heaven and content....I always have in the back of my mind, what if there is something he didn't say when he was here. I know neither of us every wanted to believe you would pass so young, and that you would beat this lymphoma, and it haunts me that with being so passionate that you were going to beat this...did I deter you in anyway from having that last conversation? Is there anymore that I could have done, or that we could have sought out, that would have kept you here with us? And why you? You were always so very healthy and loved life. This haunts me. I don't understand so much. I have lost mom, you, Kosmo, my oldest friend from Florida, my co-worker, and now Jon tell's me a co-worker/friend of yours at Delta just passed. I just don't know what is going on, you and my friends were all so young. This world has gotten crazy, you would not have believed everything that has happened, global pandemic, people acting crazy, such hatefulness in the world today. It is frightening. Even with all this, I would rather you be here to make it better. Your outlook on things, making the best of any situation, your sense of humor, you positivity. I miss all that. I miss having you to talk to and tell me everything will be okay. I miss hearing about your day. I love you forever.

“ To my dearest brother,

So much time has passed, yet it still feels so hard to think of life without you. There are so many times that I wish I could pick up the phone and talk to you, to hear your laugh, to listen to your funny stories or just to hear how your day is going. I miss being able to share my life with you, how your nieces and nephews are doing, how Cooper is, or just being able to have someone that really cared. We talked a lot about nothing and yet that is what I miss the most. I miss your everyday comings and goings, hearing about your trips to Kennesaw, walking Kosmo, crazy stuff going on at work, even what you ate on a particular day. Everyone says the sorrow will get easier, but it doesn't. It still hurts, I still cry and I still miss you so very very much. You will have another birthday come and go this month. That will be the fifth birthday that I won't be able to call and tease you about getting older, and you laughing and telling me at least your not as old as me.

I miss you and think of you everyday. You are in my heart forever.

*Another Christmas has passed. I kept playing our last Christmas together through my head and feel so very blessed that I was able to spend that time with you. Your beautiful yet mischievous grin and little chuckle you had will be in my heart forever. The kids gave me a digital frame for Christmas. It touched my heart. Losing you has made me hold all photographs of my loved ones and our times together so very important. Now when I feel alone, all I have to do is look at the frame and see you here with me. It's late and I am unable to sleep. I am thinking about you and how you loved when the weather became cooler. You loved walking Kosmo and hiking and I often wonder what you would be doing now and how you would be adjusting to this pandemic. I think that I am unable to spend the first Christmas of my life without my kids and family and it breaks my heart. I think of our last Christmas together and how well you were that day. Walking around, opening gifts, eating so well, and my heart soared and hearing that you felt it was your best Christmas and you talked with me and the kids reminiscing and telling stories. You said some of the most endearing and beautiful things that will be in my heart forever. I miss you so very much. My heart still breaks. I love you now and forever. Love always, Jeanne

*It is May 2nd. The Blue Angels and Thunderbirds are going to fly over paying tribute to all the first responders, nurses, etc. It's admirable, but to me....as much as you love airshows and went whenever you could....for me.....in honor of your military service as a Ranger with the 82nd Airbourne, your service as a police officer/swat member, then with Delta insuring everyone that flew on that airline was on a safe airplane....I will never forget your comment to co-workers that showed what a seriously genuine heart you had..."think about your mom, wife, children or loved ones on that plane, that's why I care that the planes are maintained properly." I sometimes fear that I am forgetting what your voice sounded like. I keep replaying conversations we had in my mind. I know the words, the laugh, but sometimes, I don't remember the exact sound of the words. I think about you daily. Sometimes on my way home from work I will think...well Mike should be calling shortly...he's at the dog park...or on your way to the Guitar Center. All the little nuances that made everyday life, I think about. I still question everyday why they couldn't cure your lymphoma. I still think about all the what ifs. Sometimes I just want to call your doctor and say, well what if we did this, what if we did that, what if we gave you healthy stem cells even though your levels were never high enough. Would that have helped? All these things I think about. I miss you so much.

My heart breaks as much today as the day you received the news you had cancer. I always knew you were going to beat this! Young, healthy, you loved life, and looked forward to one day getting married. You are loved by so many people and were the kindest person I know. I just want to know....why you? Why must the best of people be taken so young and the people that love you left to hurt? Life was not fair.*

*It is officially cold here already. We already had one snow day last week. Cooper loved it. He is definitely like Kosmo was in that regard. I wish so that you could see him run around and act crazy. Obedient he is not...but he is a most loving little dog. Every time I do anything with Cooper I think to myself..."is this something Mike would like?" I still think of you every single day and miss you more as time passes. The old passage as it gets easier with time is so not true. I think so many times that it was just so unfair of you to have gotten this and I am constantly looking to see if there is something else....something or anything else we could have done to save you. I prayed everyday that God would see you through this and let you stay with us. We need a few good people down here. World is crazier everyday. And so much more lonely without you here. It seems times have gotten worse since you've been gone and I just wish we can get back to more simple times when you were here and everyone was happy. Thinking about you yesterday as I drove back to my place from the store and seen two red cardinals on my road. I know you're still there watching and keeping an eye on things. Mom said there's always cardinals in her back yard so I'm so happy you're watching over her as well. I have been thinking of you. I miss you more and more everyday. Stephanie told me she sees a cardinal quite often. I wasn't sure of the meaning of that but she certainly identified that with your presence. So I looked it up. It means:

“ Thinking of you every day. Mom would have me on the phone to you about now bugging you about what you want for Christmas. This past Christmas was so wonderful with you. You felt great, ate so incredibly well....twice, and looked genuinely happy. When you said this was the best Christmas you ever had and were given things you really needed...that comment made my heart soar. I loved knowing that you were happy. When Paul was putting together the Lego Set you gave him (I know...he's a grown up...but still loves them) you were so pleased to see him doing that. Your gift was from the heart so of course he would love it. Mike I think of that day every day, and it is so bittersweet. I loved it as it was such a great day for you. You ate breakfast, lunch, dinner, dinner again and dessert and it all settled well on your stomach. You napped, walked around the house and joked with Paul, me and Ana. That brought so much joy. And when you hugged me and told me I was the best mom to you....well I will cherish that forever as I know how much you missed our mom. But you were always more like my son. Missing you so very much. Love you always and forever. Take care of my heart in heaven with you.

“ always at this time of year Mike would be calling me and telling me that it is his favorite time of the year. He would take Kozmo hiking in the mountains, weekend runs to the guitar shop, and going to the park in Atlanta to people watch and "eat the best hotdog". I miss hearing those little things that meant so much. I miss you always, I will miss you forever, until we meet again. I love you.

“ Mike: I have been thinking a lot about you as usual. Ana and I went hiking in the mountains yesterday and I told her some of the things you have done or said and she was laughing so hard. Everything from the pogo stick, Lambie, the Ho Ho Ho sign, the hotdog mall incident, and several more. It is so nice to remember everything and keep it fresh in my mind. Hearing your voice in my head telling me those stories even had me laughing. I don't tell them as well as you...but they were still funny. There are just so many wonderful things.....I miss you hearty laughter, and wicked pranks. Just remembering brings a smile to my face. Can't wait to tell her about the Thomas Field Sobriety test. I know the officers and Delta employees miss your shenanigans.

Love always and forever, Jeanne

“ Happy birthday, uncle mike! I miss you. I keep finding myself waiting for your phone call. It's still so hard to believe. You are a very missed and loved man. By so many people. But, just remember that we will never forget you. Mom and I always talk about you and I hope we never stop! I love hearing her voice sound so happy when she talks about you. You always will be the greatest uncle I've ever had!!

“ It's your birthday!! Really wish you were here to celebrate turning 49....I could tease you so much about almost hitting the big 50.....and your remark, that I miss hearing so much, would be, "I may be turning 49....but you will always be older than me." Then you would do that little laugh. God I miss hearing that. Hoping Mom and Kozmo are making your day in heaven special for you. I wish so much that we could have found a cure and that you were healthy and living a full happy life and being subjected to "cupcake bootcamp" while I make your cake (i will never bake again without hearing you say that). Such a beautiful memory. You are as much in my heart as ever. Missing you every moment of everyday. I love you always.

“ Mike: just 8 more days until your birthday. I still plan on making a birthday cake in your honor. I loved how funny you were when I made you cake last year. I remember you would wait until i wasnt looking and eat the icing. I wish you were still here to do that. I miss cooking for you and you saying how much it reminded you of mom. I know how terribly you missed her and eating food you grew up with gave you a sense of mom and comfort. I loved cooking for you. You are always so appreciative. A kind and genuine soul like yours is so very much needed in a world like this. I wish God you have let you be with us for many many more years. I still don't understand him taking you back so soon.. I miss your warm heart and the affection you had for those close too you.. I love you always. JEANNE

Just sitting in my room listening to music and thinking of and missing you terribly as always. I hear the music mom use to listen to and wait for that sign she said would be there when I played it. I haven't had that yet. I am still waiting for a sign from you to know your okay and actually in a better place. I know I am not in a better place without you in my life. I miss talking to you everyday and hearing your funny stories, I miss hearing you say your driving home from work, going to the dog park, telling me kozmo having a fit because you drove by the pet store. Or you telling me to hold on while you order a 5 pump white chocolate mocha from starbucks. So many of the little things that were taken for granted when you were here is what I miss most. I always thought you would live a long life. I still have a hard time accepting your no longer with us. I miss you so.

“ Mike I miss you more everyday. My heart is in a thousand pieces. I keep asking god why he had to take someone as loved as you are and someone who genuinely loved his family back. I know it's foolish to write...but somehow I feel a little better sharing my thoughts with you. I've have never felt such profound hurt and loneliness. I know you always said I need to be happy and I try..but it is so very hard. I miss my brother, confidant and best friend. I love you always.

Through you Jeanne, I can see exactly what kind of man Mike was. I am so sorry for your loss and for you being unable to keep making memories and sharing all of your stories together. Breaks my heart to now Mike was so young and still had so much life to give. I am truly sorry for your loss and can only say to hold those memories close to your heart and make new stories to tell Mike when you see him again.

“ *My dearest brother.
How I miss talking with you. I would love to hear you laugh and get the mischievous twinkle in your eye when you told me of your many escapades and jokes. My life is so empty and lonely without you. So much I need to say. I miss your guidance and advice. Most of all I miss being there and sharing your life. I know you fought your very hardest to fight this cancer...and I would have done anything in the world to have you survive this. My heart breaks more and more everyday. I am so very unhappy. I don't understand how I am supposed to live with such heartache. I miss you so.*

“ Missing you more through the holidays. It's Easter Sunday and all I can think about is how much you would have ate! I miss you. I miss talking to you. Miss getting your insight on things. I passed a Brusters yesterday and thought of you and how you loved their shakes. Mom misses you immensely. We live through your memories and try to reminisce of good times. I wish I could occupy her mind more. I know she's hurting. And it hurts me knowing I can't do anything for her. You are and always will be a huge part of her life! We all miss you. I'll love you forever and always!

“ Dearest brother.....I miss your laughter, all your funny stories, your kind heart and mischievous smile. I miss talking with you and getting up at one a.m. to fix you something to eat then talking the night away. I miss having you in my life....even the 5 am phones calls when you were going to work...even though I didn't have to wake for another hour, the 2:30 phones calls as you were driving home and the 5:00 phone calls from the dog park....I could always count you you to make me laugh.....gosh how I miss that.

“ There's nothing more I want than for you to call me and tell me you're driving around because you got bored sitting at home. For you to tell me how your day has been or what happened at work this week. Or to tell me about some pretty girl you talked to at the gym. I've eaten more peanut butter and jelly sandwiches in the middle of the night lately than I have in my entire life. And yes, a tall glass of milk with it. It's amazing the impact you have on people. Your caring ways and personality just drew people to you. I'll always remember, no matter how long we didn't talk to or see one another, we picked up where we left off. Never missed a beat. It amazes me how our personalities are so much alike and we never clashed. I miss you more at night than any other time. I love you always.

“ Dearest brother
You know when you got Cooper and you told the lady you wanted a dog to keep up with you.....I am sure she is still laughing her butt off having bestowed the "perfect" dog for you! He is 100 miles per hour 24/7. I can hear you chuckling as you watch from above as the little monster has me chasing him all over the yard.....he is sooo very talky. I am happy to have and extension of you and something you loved. He drives me crazy and brings me comfort at the same time. I guess he isn't going to let me forget how terribly spoiled you made him. You were always so wonderful with Kozmo and Cooper and shared so many funny stories and photos. I hope I am doing you proud with him. I still miss you every second. I hope Kozmo and mom are taking good care of you. Until we meet again...know I love you...I always have and always will. Jeanne

“ I'll never understand why you were taken away so young. I wish more than anything that you could have lived out your life and grown old. But, I'm thankful I got to spend the time I did with you. I realized how much we are alike and now I can see you in a lot of things I do everyday. You're alive in all of us and so very missed. I heard you didn't like the food very much up there! I hope you're doing well. Shine bright, Uncle Mike! You are truly loved and missed by many people. I love you. 💕

“ My dearest brother I miss you more each and every day. They say it gets easier with time....but I'm not so sure. I miss having my best friend to talk to, the reminiscing we did when Stephanie and Amie were here, how happy you were on Christmas, I miss how much you genuinely cared about everyone. I miss your zest for life. I still don't understand why God took you so young. You are the best person I have ever and will ever know. I want to hear your voice telling me about your day, funny stories of you and your friends, or Cooper and Kozmo. I miss how much you make me laugh. I wish you were still here to find that one true love you always longed for, to be able to travel, to see the sunset, to take Cooper to the dog park. I just wish you were here....living life day to day. I miss you.

“ My dearest brother I miss you so much. I have been so blessed to have been the one to take care of you this past year. It is a time that I will always cherish as you are forever in my heart. Even when we received discouraging news, you always said, "it is what it is." You were so brave and more concerned how I felt then how you were feeling. You are such a caring, loving, and selfless man. Always putting others before yourself...to a fault. I wish I had 50 more years to spend with you and share life's ups and downs. I wish you would have had the opportunity to find true love, travel, get married and grow old. I miss you with all my heart. I wish they had a photo of a BMX bike...I would certainly send it to heaven so you could high jump over the clouds. I love you Mike. Always have...always will.
