“ September 5, 1938 to December 29, 2016. Happy birthday, Daddy. I'm smiling at your funeral in this picture at the funeral home. Can you believe it? :) I suppose I couldn't help it, because I knew where you were and was so happy for you. I know birthdays mean nothing to you now, but I still live in this mortal world and hold on to the only thing that I know...that which is flesh and bone. So forgive my finite mind. It's all I have for now, but I know one day I, too, will see Him face to face and will be reunited with you and my Lord Jesus. Oh, glorious day! So until then, happy birthday. Love, Sharon

“ God always knows what He’s doing. I believe He knew He would call my Daddy home soon, so a visit was planned for my Daddy and Mama with me in Idaho in September of 2015 – just a little over a year before Daddy went home to heaven. I’m thankful for the memories of this last visit with him on this earth.

My Daddy was a hard-working man. I never lacked for anything I needed and received more than I deserved. He raised many children to include foster, adopted, and step children. As his biological daughter, I like to feel that I held a special place in his heart; however, I know he loved us all. He took care of us all! He was generous with his giving, and he was faithful to the Church and God. He had his faults, but as a parent myself now, I know that we all do. I choose to remember all the good times with my Daddy, and I hope my children will do the same for me.

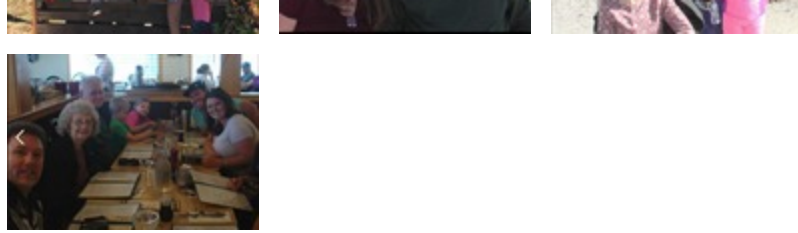

Unfortunately, through an oversight on the family’s part (not the funeral home’s part), no adult pictures of myself (Sharon) or Daddy’s son (Ron Jr.), or any pictures of mine and Ron Jr.’s children or grandchildren, were included in the memory video shared at the funeral home. I’ve included some recent pictures of my family and will add to them as I have time. Daddy’s grandchildren from me included Joshua, Caleb, Benjamin, and Danielle. Daddy’s grandchildren from Ron Jr. included Brittany, Justin, Brooklyn, and Avery.

I’m thankful for the opportunity to have sung at Daddy’s funeral. He loved to sing with me and I with him. The words from the song I sung (one of Daddy’s favorites) will forever ring in my ears and be on my lips until I see Jesus and my Daddy again.

“I’ve got more to go to heaven for than I had yesterday.” I love you, Daddy!

Love, Sharon Lee (Pasley) Henson
