Daddy,

I wish I could have seen the surprise on your face when you stood before your Savior.

I know it was hard to comprehend before you left that God's mercy and Grace extended to you, but I'm so glad you accepted!

I wish I could see the peace on your face, feel the warmth on your hand, and see the light within as you now feel no more pain.

I wish I could see your relief as you stepped into your heavenly body and no longer cared about the one you left behind.

Oh Daddy, I'm so happy for you! You finally found Jesus and He took you home! He waited for you for so long!

You've paved the way for change in this world and when it manifest I hope God will give you a glimpse as He says, "my son, your pain didn't go in vain".

Daddy...The one you see on the throne is the one who heard your little girls prayer from a child to the day you left. Will you tell Him thank you for me because my father is now home.
