Sydney and Parker, Many of us share the loss and the heartbreak of losing a parent -it is something that will never totally leave you, I think it's meant to be that way, because as long as they live in our hearts and minds, they'll always live with us. The life lessons and the unconditional love that they leave with us is the ability for us to pass that on to others. I'm terribly sorry for your loss, and at the same time pray you embrace the drive for life like he would want you to. Capt. T

“ This comes from a classmate at Walter Wellborn High School in Anniston. The first thing I recall about Steve is what a kind soul he had. That is unusual for that to be the first thing that comes to mind about another 18 year old. But it was. Just kind. I still remember shaking his hand, embracing him as we wished one another the best as we parted ways in 1984. There was not a close bond, but we always had conversation above our age and pay grade. A lifetime goes by so quickly. I am reminded today that I am but 4 days older than Steve. Godspeed to his sons as they continue down the path of life.

With fond memories,

Danny McCullars, Class of 1984

“ Stevie, I will always remember when I kept you as a toddler. You were such a sweet child. And you grew into a wonderful, sweet, & loving man. You cherished your children, I know that you were so proud of them. And I know how much you loved them. They love you so much and my prayers are with them, I know we had not seen each other for years, but we had reconnected and talked. You will never be forgotten, Stevie, you will watch over Sydney & Parker from heaven, and I know they will make you proud. I love you my precious cousin, and I will cherish my memories of you forever. RIP, Stevie, I will see you again one day.

Steven, I remember your wedding day!!! You always loved your children. You displayed that thru your commitment in willingness, time and all of the conversations you had with them as a guiding father. You always provided warmth and security to your children. Always kind and above all. respectful. You always took the time to listen and always made them laugh. You had a laughter that comes from the soul. I always loved that about you. Rest in Peace Steven. You will be greatly missed ☐
