My husband, Roger, and I have known Virgil only a few years which was way more than enough time to realize what an all around great man he was, and how devoted he was to his family.

I loved to hear the pride in his voice when he spoke of his grandchildren, and his closeness to Jean was always visible!

He was a gracious host, a super domino player, and a faithful friend to my dad, Carl Morris, who is 95 years old. Virgil and Jean have always been so generous with their thoughtful gestures towards my dad, and for that, i will forever be grateful.

As a Christian, Virgil "walked the talk". His dedication to THE LORD was clear in how he lived his life. Virgil's LIGHT will shine on, and be a constant reminder of how to live a principled life.

Blessed is the person who could call him friend. Dad, Roger, and I will miss you!!

*Sincerely,
Beckie Sloan*
