“ My brother Chris put it so elegantly about grandmom. Growing up I loved the idea of going to grandmom and granddad's house. I knew that I was going have grandmom share stories, have granddad make me laugh, and eat great home cooked meals. The love grandmom and granddad showed us is priceless. The life teachings they spent the time to teach is priceless. The love they showed all of us is priceless. Grandmom meant so much to me and my family and I thank God for blessing us with her. God's team just got stronger. I love you so very much Grandmom. Rest In Peace.

“ Hello to all. It is with great sadness that I am sharing this. My name is Christopher Crowley and I guess you could say I am Grandmom's oldest grandchild, although not biological. But that is my purpose for sharing this. You see I was welcomed into the family at I'm guessing around the age of 3 and I've been blessed to have stuck around for the last 40. And while it's not a particular memory; more like an admired quality; I have NEVER been treated, nor felt loved any less than my fellow siblings and cousins. Likewise, I have never thought of, nor loved my Grandmother & my Grandfather any less either. For as far back as my childhood memories will take me, they have always been there. Over the years I have truly cherished this unconditional love for each other...it has always and continues to mean so much to me. They both had a hand in raising me the right way, always teaching me right from wrong and both have made a huge imprint on the man I am today...and for that I am forever grateful. Grandmom, I will miss your lifetime of stories, your laugh, your honesty, your quiet strength, looking through old photo albums with you, your unrivaled desserts, and yes even organizing your pantry. But most importantly, I will greatly miss, but never forget, your love for me...for my wife...and for your brief but ever so precious moments with our son. Although just a baby, he undoubtedly loved his Great Grandma! Thank you Grandmom for all that you've done, for all that you were and forever will be. May you forever know God's love. We will miss you dearly. We love you SO VERY MUCH! Christopher, Jessika, & Cohzy
